ISTRATION

Supervising Principal

We are in the midst of an age-old conflict—this issue between the men who seek to enrich themselves by plundering and those who know that the only enduring enrichment comes by giving. Mere death and destruction will never blind the vision of the man who invests himself in his country. This investment of self occurs when one does more than he is paid to do in any form of work for the common good. What you build with your hands may crash into ruins but what you build with your heart will survive like an immortal thing.

Henry V Malthurs

Board of Education

Greetings to the Class of 1942 whose challenging privilege it is to enter into adulthood as America dedicates itself to the task of unfurling the Stars and Stripes in triumph and in honor as a symbol of Justice, Equality and Fraternity for all the peoples of the earth

Principal's Message

MARINUS C. GALANTI

You have studied for the past four years under the supervision of the members of the staff of the Lodi High School. To my mind you have attained an education which should place you on the ladder leading to a great objective—an educated person. In this message let me give you my concept of such a person with the hope that you will use it as a guide for future progress.

To be an educated person you must know more than merely how to do something, whether it is giving a lecture, trying a lawsuit, or repair plumbing, you should know the significance of what you are doing. You should have a set of values—a "yes" and a "no" that are your own. You must learn to prefer for you have lived in the presence of things that are preferable. I do not mean that you should train yourself merely in conventions of polite society or conformaties of crowd morality. Depart from both in many things. Learn about human life on this planet to see behavior in the light of a body of experience and relation of your actions to situations as a whole. When you do this you will have acquired a liberal education, and it makes little difference whether or not you have been trained in philosophy or mechanics. Then you will be transformed from an automaton into a thinking being

IT WAS ALL IN FUN

Now comes the time for a turnabout. The underclassmen have at one time or another been the pawn of the Senior's superiority and jokes. They have either by experience felt the pangs of being a lowerclassman or followed the general tide of resenting all upperclassmen. Well now that we've come to departing ways, we no longer wish to poke fun at or belittle our rather humble colleagues, instead we Seniors want to acknowledge them for their cooperation, friendliness, and the fine spirit shown throughout our years at Lodi High School

THE Seniors wish to express their appreciation to the faculty for their encouragement and aid in sponsoring organizations. Their helpfulness has made for a fuller and richer school life.

With the existance of these various clubs, the students have been helped greatly in meeting new friends, getting new ideas for life outside of school, and having the pleasure of starting a new hobby which they will probably continue in the years to come. Many students would not have had the facilities to start the various forms of hobbies in their organizations had it not been for the interest shown by the faculty in aiding students to get supplies, and giving the students such splendid cooperation by working hand in hand with them

SENIOR PLAY

THE Senior presentation of 'Ever Since Eve", a three act comedy by Florence Ryerson and Colin Clemental was one of the highlights in the many events of the year, 1942

Johnny Clover, a high school student, runs into many difficulties trying to make a success of the first edition of "The Penguin", the school newspaper. With the very able but sometimes unwanted assistance from Susan Brake, the girls' editor, the "Penguin" turned out to be a great success despite the fact that Johnny got the measles, that both he and Spud, Johnny's best pal, fell madly in love with a pretty little Southern gal, and that both ran into trouble with "Officer Simmons"

The play was packed with laughter and fun galore for all. And why shouldn't it with such a fine cast!

MARGARET STROHMEYER Mrs. Clover, the mother
ROBERT CHEPLY Johnny Clover, editor of "Penquin"
GEORGE KMETZ Mr. Clover, the father

SEN!OR BALL

TRANSFORMATION from a gym to a soft Yuletide setting took place on Friday evening, December 5 when the graduating class of '42 held its annual Senior Ball

This cozy atmosphere was achieved with decorations which included evergreens placed around the gym large packages representing boxes of Christmas gifts surrounding the orchestra, a huge, sparking fireplace with twinkling flames which provided light, and red, white, and green streamers across the ceiling

The girls in billowing gowns and boys outfitted in tuxedos danced to the lilting refrains of Vic Frazee's orchestra

Will we ever forget the smiles and joy that were present at the Senior Ball? Of course not!

CLASS WILL

WE, the Class of 1942 of Lod. High School being of sound and disposing mind, hereby do make, execute this, our last will and testament, expressly revoking and annulling any will by us at any time heretofore made

FIRST: To Mr. Galanti we leave our heartfelt esteem and deep gratitude for his encouragement in directing us to attain our purposes

SECOND We hereby bequeath to the entire faculty our genuine reverence for their helpfulness and pleasant memories throughout our years at High School

THIRD: To Miss Huber we leave our acknowledgements for her untiring efforts in supervising the production of this year book. All the praise and success achieved by this manuscript we owe to her

FOURTH To Mr Grohman, we hereby bequeath a scarlet scooter so he can "scoot" after the seniors for their year book payments

FIFTH: To Miss Narotsky we transmit by inheritance fifty million Free Frenchmen

SIXTH: To the Junior Class we leave the following

- The respected title of Seniors and the debts that go with it.
- 2. The "Dagger Speech" and the wonderful Mercury Theater record presentation of "Macbeth."
- 3. The remainder of the Yearbook paper, which we know will be duly appreciated

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have hereunto set our hands and seals this thirty-first day of January, 1942

Signed, sealed, published, and declared by the said Class of 1942, the above named, as and for our last will and testament in the presence of those who were both present or behind our backs, and in the presence of each other or behind their backs, have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses on this nineteenth day of June, 1942

OOD evening, Ladies and Gentlemen. This is your outside commentator, Robert Pool, speaking in front of the Jefferson Theater where the world premiere "Twenty Years from Today" is being presented. Curious crowds are ,amming the sidewalks. Captain Frank Tabano has his whole force of Salvatore Mazzoni, Emil Slembarski, Albert Schrieks, and Joseph Ward fighting to keep the walks clear. The first car draws up. Leonard Nach, the Jefferson Doorman, steps to the car and opens the door for the great politician, William Engravalle, with his secretary, Jennie Szoja. Chauffeur William Galler tips his cap and drives away. In the crowds I recognize Andrew Gallopo, Wilhelmina Kopchinsky, Gus Raia, and Sarah De Grado. Robert. Ostrochovsky opens the theater door for Isadora Como, a foreign correspondent. The number one debutante, Irene Rosiasly, strolls to the door escorted by the District Attorney, Frank Dianuzzo Photographer Lester Czesak is taking pictures of the famous explorer, Julius Monkowski, as he gets out of a taxi driven by Angelo Senaldi. Spectators Ruth Castagna and Rose. Gregory rush up to get a glimpse of Edward Erdman, President of the First National Bank of Lodi Late comers, Norma Trocola, Theresa Tuzzolo, Evelyn Schmitz, Lillian Seemann, and Lawrence Toscano are being turned away by ticket sellers Jean Alesso, Dorothea Carius, and Dorothy Defarro. Eleanor Mooney and Alice Nethal rush in escorted by Anthony Mosca Most of the crowd disperses, but Russell Lo Cascio, Jennie Arena, and William Lapsley remain in hopes of a last glimpse of the celebrities. Curtain time in five minutes, so your outside commentator, Robert Pool, is signing off "

After receiving the programs from Carole Jaeger, the girls and Anthony Mosca were ushered to their seats by Edward Andrey. They were surprised to find themselves seated beside Emily Nieradka and Marie Choope, owners of the Nieradka-Choope Business School.

"Why, Eleanor, do you know who has the lead in the play? Angela Hohn has it, and Bob Cheply is playing opposite her. Yes, and look at the rest of the cast. Guido Boggio, Rose Maio, Howie Janotta, Audrey Urban, Ann Riedel, June Janotta, Lawrence Van Hook, Antoinette Santora, Rose Romano, Edward Skrzynski, Fleming Norris, Catherine Losino, James Montalbano, Anthony Bua, and Julius Dedinsky."

"Look girls, here's an advertisement from the florist where I bought your corsages. It says, 'Buy Pretty Posies at Pillar's Petite Shoppe'. These advertisements are certainly interesting. Would you like to go to Piazza's Plaza or Kmetz's Cocktail Lounge? How about some perfume, Eleanor? It says, 'A new and original perfume by the House of Louis "Phillippe" Infante'. 'What better way for feet to go forward best, than in Roger Helias' all-leather shoes?' Alice, is this where you got your fur coat, at I. J. Falcone?"

"My! Isn't that gentleman who is walking with Dorothy Cavallo well-dressed! Ton nee! You should get a hat like the one Mr. Basilotta has on instead of that stovep pe you're wearing. Eve yn Wittig told me he buys all his hats at Frank Corso's Haberdashery."

"Instead of looking at the men, you should read the program. You know most of these people Listen! Director Thomas Castello presents "Twenty Years from Today" by Erroy Di Maria, Assistant Director, Harold Hagens and his secretary, Marie Gramegna Staff for Mr Castello Personal Representative, John Wark, Company Manager, Edward Govignon, Manager's secretary, Gloria Fleisch, General Press Representative, Doris Sacawa, General Stage Director, Edward Edwards, Stage Manager, John Velock, Assistant State Manager, Fred Yelavich, Properties, Louis Gebbia, Catherine Giordani, Leonard Place, Electricians, Lester De Baun, David Dowson, Sound, George Anzelmo, Art Jackowski, Frank Giordani, Carpenters, Douglas Emr, and John Grembowiec, Wardrobe Mistress, Genevieve Bruno, Tailor, John Lukaszewicz, House Physicians, James Librie and Marcel Laguerre, Nurses, Georgette Sinde ar and Irene Camanini, Plumber, William Thornton, Business Manager, Stanley Wdoviak, Business Staff, Etta Cirello, Marie De Pasquale, Emily Fedick, Sophie Friedman, Gioria Kozich, Bernard Nowosielecki, Kasmiera Olender, and Anna Orsini, Scenery built by Walter Yakubosky, Prompters, Roy Bower and Marguerite Perrier, Make up, Frances Anzalone, Fernanda Hudzik, Doris Wacht, and Irene Warchol, Costumes designed by Rosalie Byrne and Mary Ruberto, Technicians, George Becker and Stanley Fallet, Coiffeurs, Olga Cimpko, Celia Cioletti, and Margie Di Yanni, Ushers, Alex Eurist, George Stein, Frank Tywoniak, Usherettes, Charlotte Baranski, Bernice Garrick, Gloria Keppler, June Robertson, and Ellen Voitel, Ticket Collectors, Julius Picciano, Emil Sondey, and Joseph Karpinski, Firemen, Nick Lattanzio, Maynard Kooistra, Edward Hurban, and Paul Gerardi, Program Distributors, Ann Tabano, Josephine Lo Proto, and Isabelle Vagi, Ticket Seller, Charles Palumbo, Murals painted by Marion Aglito, Program printed by John Gutches

"Why goodness!" exclaims Alice, "We know them all. I wonder who those people are coming down the aisle. I guess that's the orchestra. Sure enough! Look who they are. Marion Hoving, Henry Clausen, Kay Kaufmann, Russel Compesi, George Robb, George Voltzow, Louis Croes, Harriet Heckel, Ardree Heissler, John Curotto, Olimpio Lopez, Margaret Dedinsky, Paul Rostkowski, Dorothy Horant, Vincent Marchese, Evelyn Saluppo, Ann Sproviero, and Peter Stack."

The house lights dim, the orchestra rises, the curtain opens, and the first act begins

"That was excellent, don't you think so girls? Oh, Eleanor, did I tell you about May Allen's accident? It seems that she and He en Blum were in a crash with May's car. Ethel Hlywa told me that it happened in front of the Millinery owned by Caroline and Rita Gentilello. Girls, look¹. There's that famous Spanish Matador, John Lopez, with Tom Orsini and Dot Bartels, the pilot and air hostess, who accompanied him from Spain.

"Of all people! Just look who's sitting in the next row! The celebrated Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, Ray Busico, Andrew Stepien, Edward Stolarz, and Dan Luciano. There's Coach 'Zeb' Czaikoski with Manager Joe Sproviero, and Frank Munsterer, publicity manager."

"I just remembered I promised to meet Pat Trella, the distinguished poet, and her mischievious friend Irene Teneza in the lobby. Let go there now, Tony."

"Good evening everyone. I'd like you to meet our escort, Mr. Mosca. Tony, these are the Misses Ann Buczek, Josephine De Franco, Irene Fehrs, Ann Hyvl, Carmella Bianca, and Josephine Cimiluca. How do you do?"

"Have you seen Jessie MacLean, the world-wide traveler, Irene?"

"I haven't seen her yet, but I was very surprised to meet Admiral Paul Roosen of the United States Marines - Evelyn Schnebelen, Loretta Palumbo, and Vincent Cirello asked me if you were going to be here tonight - Vincent wanted you to meet Supreme Court Chief Justice Howard Bowers and the artist, Kay Burke."

Tony was just about to leave the lounge when Anthony Calleo slapped him on the back and shouted, "Hi Tony, you old buck! I haven't seen you in a long time. Just the other day Marinus Jagt, Joseph Manzo, and I were talking about old times. Remember the time when Charles Ott, Kenneth Pletsch, Robert Poupon, and Salvatore Russo had to take gym with the girls! That was funny! Remember the Senior Ball with all the pretty girls like Marion Murray, Olga Kardash, Ruth Hubsmith, and Grace De Lorenzo!"

The head usher, Edwin Wood, walked through the lounge calling "Curtain time! Second act is about to begin in a few minutes."

"Tony, where have you been all this time? Philomena Botta, Ann Carnevale, Millie La Barba, and Edith Pinand wanted to give you an invitation to the car show given by the Schedivy Woodley Auto Company. Come, let's sit down."

"There's Nick Narbone and his assistant, Marie Rigon. He's the chemist who disagrees with the dietitian, Marion Macko, on her theory of bananas. That garage mechanic, Bob Facella, certainly can talk. Doesn't he know the curtain is going up?"

"The audience seems to have enjoyed the second act. President of the Texas Oil Company, Dan Hempstead, and his secretary, Evelyn Kobscenski, are going to be exhausted if they keep on applicating with such enthusiasm."

"Alice, did you notice the advertisements on this page? Look at this one from Gomes-Van Howling Paint Company, and this one from Koc-Cammarata Beauty Salon. Here's someone we know. Mr. Cheply's tuxedo was furnished by the Marasek-McLaren Company. The exquisite furniture was furnished by the Prall-Rafy Company. I never thought these people would be in business. Look! Spangles and jewels from the Wessel sisters, Costa's cigarettes, cosmetics from the Jablonski Trio, camera from Kinchley's Sport Shop.

John MacCulloch, the financial backer of the play, sat in a box with his guests, Frances De Marco, Mildred Rusin, Florence Dvorak, Rose Pachella, Benjamin Rockovitz, George Gaudio, and Helen Rizzo. In the opposite box were seated the members of the "Elite Club". Anita Focarino, Mary Koney, Eleanor Lapsley, Doris Seaman, Eleanor Milano, Margaret Strohmeyer, Fred Rakowski, Robert Schneider, Harry Kohring, Alfred Mosca, and Bernard Focarino.

Did the audience like it? Just listen to the applause!

In the lobby the author, Elroy De Maria, was showered with congratulations from Adeline Guglielmino, Eleanor Kostroun, Rose Gigante, Angelina Novelle, Helen Snyer, Anthony Tamborini, Carmella Orlando, Helen Pasiut, Russell Schulz, Marjorie Rieck, Josephine Sproviero, Mario Vuolo, Josephine Santangelo, and Paul Bobucky

Mildred Wisse, Miss Hohn's secretary, desperately tries to turn away the autograph hunters, Eleanor Curcio, Phyline Trocola, Silvia Frustieri, Agnes Messineo, Olga Tackach, Frank Kotek, Ann Kiel, Rachael Trocola, and Kenneth Messineo

Kmetz's Cocktail Lounge provided entertainment for Veronica Kobylarz, Matteo Giannino, Angelina Orlando, Michael Sistaro, Evelyn Williams, Marie Galmiche, Olga Diaczok, Roman Wicherski, Nancy Tropona, Josephine Canonico, Florence Guarneri, Helen Guinan, Emma Mappa, Frances Klecar, and Josephine Zangara. The party reminisced over their high school years as the orchestra softly played "Auld Lang Syne."

Dear Miss Donnelly:

I have auburn hair, light brown eyes, and a snow-white complexion.

What color uniform do you think that I should 30 out with? Marion Aglito--Dear Marion:

With your features you'd go good with anything worthwhile. Dear Miss Donnelly:

I'm a blonds and have blue eyes and the cutest smile whatever. Do you think if I were to lease myself to a beauty parlor, I would be more beautiful?

Fernanda Hudzik Dear Fornanda:

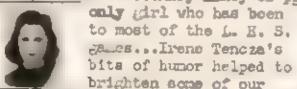

Never mind leasing your beauty. How about lending it?

Dear Miss Donnelly: What I would like to know is, should I become a model or shouldn't I? Look at my picture and please tell me. Charlotte Bararsky--Dear Charlotte: Be a model!

"To this a dagger which I see before me?" No, it isn't a dagger, but it is a group of girls just as dangerous--

Doris Sacawa, Marion Hoving, Marion Macko, and Marie Rigon. These girls took part in the college English class's production of "Macbeth". They didn't outshine the Mercury Theater production but they made the Schiora gigle and they really did frighten the Juniors with ghosts, daggers apparitions, and above all, the witches's stew... Is there a better performer on the football field than Marge Dedinsky, L. E. S. shapely, strutting majoretts? How we enjoyed the band!

ization of the porter? It was one of the "hilights" of the play. Bob gave a very finant and convincing performance.
